

Occasional Table LTR

Charles & Ray Eames, 1950

vitra.

The LTR (Low Table Rod Base, 1950) is a small, versatile occasional table designed by Charles and Ray Eames, who used it in their own home in a variety of different ways. A number of these tables are still found in the Eames House today.

Standing individually or in groups, some are decorated with objects from the Eames collection, while others simply serve as a practical side table next to an armchair or sofa.

The LTR is available with a chrome-plated or black powder-coated base and a choice of table tops: solid wood with a natural finish, HPL plywood or gold leaf on plywood with a transparent coating.

- Wooden table top: solid wood with oiled finish; natural oak, smoked oak or American walnut.
- HPL table top: plywood core, high-pressure laminate surface.
- Gold Leaf table top: plywood core, gilded surface with transparent coating.
- Base: steel wire, chrome-plated or powder-coated.
