between a Merino, whose wool is extremely soft, and a Corriedale, which is known for its sturdy fibers.

- Material: 100% Peruvian highland wool.

The Colour Block Blankets are made of Peruvian highland wool. This is produced by a hybrid breed of sheep – a cross
